41 Illinois Communities Hit by Water Shortage; Survey Advises Stratton

Dr. Buswell Reports Harrisburg, Galatia Supplies Out by Feb. 1

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Drought is tightly pinching water supplies for 200,000 residents of 41 Illinois communities.

South of a line through Quincy, Jacksonville, Lincoln, Clinton, Paxton and Danville the rainfall shortage ranges from 10 to 15 inches.

Some towns already have been forced to take "extreme emergency" steps like hauling water supplies by truck each day.

More than a score of others in the southern half of Illinois are in danger of running out of water in less than three months.

And there isn't much hope of restoring underground moisture supplies by summer—the frozen ground will hinder the soaking of water into the earth at least until March.

These were highlights of a special report given to Gov. William G. Stratton Tuesday by Dr. A. M. Buswell, chief of the state water survey.

Buswell said the 41 central and southern Illinois communities he listed are in "trouble" getting water now, or are "threatened with it in the near future." A drought as severe as this one occurs only about once in 50 years, he said. At one central Illinois station he reported, rainfall from April through December, 1952, was at a level so low it is likely to occur only once in 94 years.

Flow in the Sangamon River last month was the second lowest in 44 years. In the Big Muddy River in Franklin County, it was the lowest in the 39 years records have been kept.

Bunker Hill, Effingham, Elkhart and Pittsfield already have taken "extreme" emergency measures to get and conserve water, Buswell said. Greenfield has exhausted its supply.

Buswell said supplies may run out as early as Feb. 1 at Galatia, Harrisburg, Kincaid, Marissa and Mattoon by Feb. 1.

One month later, Altamont, Ashley, Carrier Mills, Decatur, Highland, Johnston City, Mount Sterling, Sesser and Waterloo may have run out of water, Buswell said.

By April 1, Buswell said, Blainville, Eureka, Jacksonville, La Harpe, Nashville, Norris City, Olney, Sparta, Vienna, Virginia and White Hall may join the list of "waterless" towns.

In addition, Arcola, Assumption, Barry, Beecher City, Camp Point, Dongola, Jonesboro, Teutopolis, and Windsor lack supplies to meet present needs, he said. Buswell blamed these conditions on three factors—"management deficiencies, municipal finance problems, and lack of information on water resources."

Sometimes cities fail to foresee growing water problems, he said. Other cities don't have money to make needed improvements, and there is also a general neglect of "more complete and trustworthy information on water resources," the survey chief reported.

Half of the water supply systems in the 41 towns listed could be put into "satisfactory" shape at a cost of $50 per resident or less, according to Buswell. But he said "remedial measures for the remainder will be more expensive."

Stratton referred to the water problem at his news conference Tuesday. He said he may name a committee to seek solutions if the situation continues.

Doom Discusses Water System at Lions Meeting

The history of the Harrisburg water system, from 1894 to the present, was outlined for members of the Harrisburg Lions club Tuesday night by Amos Doom, superintendent of the Harrisburg Water Company.

In his talk Mr. Doom pointed out that water consumption in Harrisburg had almost doubled in the past 15 years. At present the consumption will run from about 700,000 gallons during the winter months to more than a 1,000,000 gallons during the summer months.

This increased consumption is the primary reason for the shortage we face today, Doom said. Harrisburg's first water system, in 1894, was supplied from a cistern and from water impounded in Middle Fork, it was stated. In 1913-1914 the C. I. P. S. built a reservoir. At that time consumption was 250,000 to 300,000 gallons in a 24-hour period. In 1923 the south reservoir was built, it was stated.

Lake Plans Discussed

Proposed Lake Harrisburg was discussed and called "the answer to our dreams." The lake would cover some 350 acres and would be supplied by a water shed of approximately 3400 acres. It is estimated a 5-inch runoff of water would fill the reservoir, which would hold sufficient water to supply Harrisburg's needs for more than three years without additional rain.

In closing, Mr. Doom told the Lions to not be afraid of using Blue Lake water, which is to be pumped to Harrisburg during the present emergency. He assured the club members the water was safe and was approved for use by the state department of health.

During the meeting the Lions voted to make a $35 contribution to the March of Dimes campaign. It was announced the Harrisburg club now was in 28th place in the district standings. The district is composed of more than 70 clubs and standings are determined by membership, attendance, programs and other phases of club activities.

Next meeting night, Jan. 26, will be Ladies Night.

JIM BOLEN—in charge of arrangements for the WSIL-TV Polio Benefit Telethon which starts Saturday at 10 p. m. Bolen will act as Emcee for the show and will also take part in the entertainment by doing some of the popular songs in pantomime and also will be called upon to play the piano.

Powell Reports Dixon Springs Road Progress

Satisfactory progress is being made in the move by the Illinois highway officials to have a letting on the contract to pave the Dixon Springs road from Mitchellville, according to information from Rep. Paul Powell.

Rep. Powell says he has inquired of the Department of Public Works and Buildings as to the status of the route, known as Federal Air Route 163, following the announcement the road is to be included in the 1954 highway program.

He has been informed that the detailed construction plans are very nearly completed and should be ready for submission to the U. S. Bureau of Public Records for approval by the end of this month.

The redesign of this project to meet the standards of a primary highway has required the purchase of 76 additional tracts of land for right-of-way purposes, 40 of which have been acquired. Good progress is being made in acquiring the rest of the properties, and no particular difficulties are anticipated.

Rep. Powell says he was informed, except that condemnation proceedings will be required to clear the title on two tracts, and it may be necessary to condemn as many as four other tracts because of failure to agree on the amount of compensation.

The Highway Department estimates the right-of-way will be cleared by March 15, and unless unforeseen developments arise, bids for the road should be advertised during the late winter or early spring months.

Four More File

Four more had filed for precinct committee in county court here at 9 a. m. today. They were: Democrat: Harrisburg 3, Carl D. Beggs; Harrisburg 6, William Pearson.

Republican: Harrisburg 5, George Barker; Harrisburg 7, Fleas Gibbons.

Miss Helen Lorene Laird to Sing Leading Opera Roles in Switzerland

Miss Helen Lorene Laird, Harrisburg's contribution to the field of opera, has signed a contract to sing leading roles with the Staats Opera in Basel, Switzerland.

Miss Laird, daughter of Mrs. Helen Edelman of Denver, Colo., is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jennie Luckett and niece of Mrs. Ira Cozart of this city.

A dramatic soprano, Miss Laird's work with the Staats Opera will begin Aug. 16 and will continue for one year.

A graduate of Harrisburg Township high school, Miss Laird obtained her bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, obtained master's degrees in both music and education at Columbia university in New York City, then studied further at Juillard School of Music, also in New York.

At present she is studying and singing under contract in Europe, having been there since last July. Chiefly she has been in Munich, Germany, and in Salzburg, Austria.

Writing here about her new contract, Miss Laird stated the Staats Opera house recently has been in the limelight in the music world of the United States because Inga Borg, who made such an outstanding debut at the San Francisco Opera house as Electra, sang there for seven years.

Miss Laird's first European appearance was in Switzerland, at Geneva. There, at the International Competition, she was awarded a diploma as a laureate.

WSIL-TV Polio Benefit Show Saturday Night

Program Will Feature Southern Illinois Entertainers

Thirty talented entertainers from throughout southern Illinois have been signed for the WSIL-TV polio benefit show to be telecast Saturday starting at 10 p. m. Jim Bolen, program director of WSIL-TV, announces that enough talent for the live telecast will be on hand to keep the program continuing on the air as long as the viewers want it to run.

The television station, the county polio chairmen of southern Illinois and bordering areas of Kentucky, Missouri and Indiana, and the Harrisburg Rotary club have cooperated to make this program possible as a means of uniting the people throughout the areas in an all-out fight against the common enemy polio.

On hand to take part in the polio show will be 11-year-old Shirley Ann Crouch, acrobat, of Herrin. Shirley Ann has been an outstanding entertainer since she was seven years old. At that time she won a $2,000 cash award and a trophy on the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour held at Madison Square Garden and since then has spent the summer months appearing with the Ted Mack show. She has also appeared on the coast to coast ABC network television program "Super Circus".

Also appearing on the polio show will be Shirley Ann's six-year-old sister, Sheila Kay who is just starting her career as an entertainer.

Saline County Entertainers

Other entertainers will include The Prophets, a quartet from Mt. Vernon well known throughout southern Illinois; a trio composed of Charlie Martin, West Frankfort, with his bass violin, J. B. Carney, West Frankfort, with his electric guitar, and Jim Bolen at the piano.

From Saline county area will be John Richard Small, Della Dale, Verner Joyner Jr., and young Larry Edwards of Carrier Mills who is an accomplished pianist. Helen Asbell will play the organ that is being installed in the WSIL-TV studio for the polio telethon.

In addition to the personal appearance of these and other entertainers from southern Illinois, WSIL-TV has arranged for the televising of film program specially prepared to aid the polio campaign. On this filmed program will be Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez, Jerry Colonna, Jimmy Wakely and Roberta Lynn.

Jim Bolen will MC the telethon and will call on members of the WSIL-TV staff throughout the evening and early morning hours. Bill Platter, staff artist, will draw several of his caricatures; Doug Matthews and Bob Walker will give news and sports events during the evening and Cactus Pete will make an appearance on behalf of the polio benefit and has promised to introduce for the first time on television his sidekick Eucalyptus.

Saline County Child Welfare Office to Observe 14th Birthday

County residents are invited to an open house at the Saline County Child Welfare office in the court house basement on Jan. 22 from 2 to 4 p. m. in observance of the 14th birthday of the office. It is one of only five county child welfare offices in the state and was established through the initiation of the people in the county because of their interest in child welfare.

Although the office began operating in 1940, there had been a growing interest in it for several years prior to that time. Beginning as far back as 1936, meetings and conferences were held among Saline county officials and representatives from the State Department of Public Welfare to discuss the organization of a child welfare office.

In June 1939, the Gallatin County Child Welfare office held a dinner to celebrate its second anniversary. Because of the interest that Saline county people were showing in the child welfare program, invitations were extended to a number of people in that county.

Financial Problems

Six people from Saline county attended, including the newly elected county judge and several members of the county board. Later in the month, several state office staff members met with the judge and a group of interested public officials. There was mutual agreement that an office was desirable but there were financial matters to be considered before one was possible.

A later meeting with the financial committee of the county board resulted in the formulation of a plan to meet the necessary administrative and boarding home costs.

In all such offices, the State Department of Public Welfare assumes the responsibility for the social worker's salary and expenses. All other expenses are borne by the county. The state's attorney, sheriff, county superintendent of schools and a local minister were eager to help in the promotion of the plan. Early in July pledges of support began to be received in the state office in Springfield. They

Members of the Kiwanis club last night made a group visit to station WSIL-TV where they were escorted through the studio by station manager Jim Bolen.

Before going to the station the club held its regular dinner meeting at the Masonic temple. There they were addressed by Charles O. Farrar of the WSIL-TV management, who invited them to the studio and discussed future plans for expansion of the station's services in the near future.

The station is an asset and good advertising for Harrisburg, he said, but it belongs to the whole southern Illinois area with coverage of a 55 mile radius. Mr. Farrar said, according to reports from letters received from program viewers.

The area covered includes from Mt. Vernon to Paducah, and Sturgis, Marion and Morganfield, Ky., to Murphysboro and Du Quoin.

He reported an increasing number of television sets in the area, the majority of which have been converted to receive UHF telecasts.

At the station Mr. Bolen explained to the Kiwanians how a live telecast is made in the studio and explained the cameras and telecasting equipment used by the station. He was assisted by John Van Hoy, cameraman for the station.

A graveside service was held at 11 a. m. today at the Big Ridge cemetery for the infant son born Tuesday at 6 p. m. to Lt. and Mrs. Bobby Gene Walls of Lawton, Okla.

Lt. Walls is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oral Walls of the Big Ridge community, and Mrs. Walls is the former Jeanette Rogers of Maryland.

The body was taken from the Harrisburg funeral home to the cemetery. Rev. Clayton Humphrey officiated.

Morey Named President of U. of Illinois

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Lloyd Morey will move up from acting president to president of the University of Illinois Feb. 1.

The university board of trustees unanimously voted Tuesday to give Morey full title to the office.

Morey has had the "acting" title since Sept. 1 after Dr. George D. Stoddard got a "no confidence" vote from the trustees and resigned the presidency.

Board President Park Livingston said the vote was unanimous.

The appointment is until Sept. 1, the legal retirement date of the 68-year-old Morey. However, Livingston said Morey could be re-appointed at that time despite the retirement provisions.

Precisely at 1:30 a. m. (10:30 a. m., CST) Indian custodial guards turned the final prisoner over to the United Nations.

The Indians said a total of 21,809 POWs, including 14,227 Chinese and 7,582 North Koreans, were released. Of these, 72 Chinese and 32 North Koreans asked for repatriation at the last minute and were given back to the Reds.

The long-awaited release was carried out without incident despite violent Communist objections that the prisoners were being "abducted."

10,000 Taken to Inchon

The first of the prisoners released after the operation began at 8 a. m. were quickly processed thru U. N. reception camps south of the neutral zone and loaded into trucks and trains for distribution.

About 10,000 Chinese were taken immediately to Inchon harbor where they were loaded aboard 10 American LSTs for the trip to Formosa. Navy officials said the last freed Chinese should be ready to sail from Inchon by 3 p. m.

At Inchon, the red-hating Chinese played martial music on drums and bugles fashioned from beer cans and prison camp scrap metal as they boarded the ships.

"We've been behind the wire more than a thousand days," one shouted. "It's wonderful to be free."

Afraid of Red Attack

The POWs said they did not learn until Tuesday they were to be released.

"We didn't sleep all night because we were afraid the Reds would attack us to take us back," one said. "We were determined to die in the compound rather than go north."

The Communist leaders did not intervene in the return despite an 11th hour protest to the Indian Command that the release was a "violation of the armistice agreement."

Red officers tried up to the last to get the prisoners to return to communism by broadcasting an appeal to return home.

The prisoners, except for the handful that asked for repatriation, marched orderly down the road to freedom from the neutral camp to the Allied reception center.

Pro-Reds Unwanted

The 347 pro-Communist prisoners whom the Reds have refused to take back remained in their compound apparently unaware that their new "leaders" didn't want them.

An Indian spokesman said the custodial force would have to "decide what to do" with the former Allied soldiers, including 21 Americans and 1 Briton.

The Indian Command has said it would not accept responsibility for any of the prisoners in the neutral zone after midnight Friday, time set by the Korean armistice agreement for freeing of all non-repatriates.

The fact that a few of the North Korean and Chinese were able to ask for repatriation at the last minute gave the lie to Communist charges the POWs were being "abducted."

The Communists failed to back up a broadcast warning that prisoners leaving the Indian compounds would be machine-gunned, and none of the men glanced back at the smoking camp they left behind. Some had set fire to their tents and straw mats.

Chinese-American soldiers dashed out to greet the anti-Communists.

On Way to New Life in South Korea, Formosa

Release Carried Out Despite Violent Communist Objections

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Thursday (U.P.)—The last of more than 22,000 anti-Communist war prisoners were being released from their neutral zone compounds early today and some were already on their way to a new life in Formosa and South Korea.

Precisely at 1:30 a. m. (10:30 a. m., CST) Indian custodial guards turned the final prisoner over to the United Nations.

The Indians said a total of 21,809 POWs, including 14,227 Chinese and 7,582 North Koreans, were released. Of these, 72 Chinese and 32 North Koreans asked for repatriation at the last minute and were given back to the Reds.

Heavy Rainfall To Help Local Water Supply

The city water supply was being replenished a bit today but not near enough for the long haul ahead.

Rainfall up to 8 a. m. today measured 1.30 inches in Harrisburg and reports from Raleigh, Galatia, Brushy and Tate townships, water shed areas for Middle Fork and Bankston creeks said that there were heavy rainfalls on those areas.

Water was rising in the two creeks and T. C. Wheeler, superintendent of the CIPS' Muddy power station, said there was hopes that one or two of the pumping station pumps would be started today.

The station has pumps of 750, 3,000 and 14,500 gallons per minute capacities and the smaller ones would go on first.

The city is running its six-inch Congo line which brings about 500 gallons of water a minute into the reservoir from a point above the place where Bankston creeks pour into Middle Fork. Also, the CIPS is pumping about 200 gallons a minute from the borrow pit alongside the levee into the reservoir.

NYC to Pump Water

Rains, Mr. Wheeler said, this morning had raised the borrow pit level four inches, which was an encouraging factor.

This borrow pit has been pumped for several days now and was at a very low level.

It would take several days of continuous pumping from Middle Fork to put the two dismal-looking reservoirs into a respectable condition.

The north reservoir has been so low for weeks that the CIPS suction line has been a foot and a half out of the water and water from the spray pond has been used at the power plant.

Amos Doom, water superintendent, said the city was planning to close the West Harrisburg drainage ditch flood gate in the levee at the request of the New York Central railroad, so that the company could pump the accumulated water over into its own reservoir.

Park Livingston To Retire as U. I. Trustees President

Livingston said March would end his seventh year as president of the U. of I. trustees. He has five more years of his third six-year term as a trustee to serve.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Ike's First Year In Office One
Of Great Changes And Education: Has Changed His Mind
About "Creeping Socialism,"
Taken On New Advisers; Now Works Harder Than Ever.

WASHINGTON — It is now exactly one year since Dwight Eisenhower entered the White House,
a year that has been one of great education and has seen great changes. Here is a thumbnail sketch of the Ike of today:

Ike and Business — A year ago Eisenhower's economic theories sounded like a National Association of Manufacturers pamphlet. Now he has swung back halfway to the ideas expressed at the F Street club right after the war which so shocked Republican backers. "If men's lives were conscripted in wartime," Ike said at the F Street club dinner, "why shouldn't profits be conscripted too?" Ike is more conservative than in those immediate prewar years, but less so than a year ago. Today he doesn't believe in a complete hands-off policy toward business.
Nor does he believe that the doctrine of states' rights, so loudly proclaimed a year ago, constitutes a cure-all for everything.

Ike and Economy — No longer does the President believe he can balance the budget. Nor does he advise government-spending with anathema, as he did a year ago.
He is willing to put his foot in government-spending water as an offset to recession worries. But he is a long way from taking the big spending plunge. And some of the economists around him recall that it takes a lot of spending to halt
a business slide once it starts.
Ike has changed his mind about creeping socialism and the Tennessee Valley; has already set aside $105,000,000 to start another
"creeping socialism" project on the St. Lawrence, once the Seaway project passes Congress. The economy bloc in the Eisenhower administration, notable Secretary George Humphrey and Budget Director Joe Dodge, still remain Ike's close friends, but he doesn't follow their advice as much as formerly. Sometimes the chief executive is unhappy torn between the two wings of his official family.

NEW ADVISERS

Men Around Ike — A man who's had little experience in civilian government is almost completely dependent on the men around him.
That's why it's significant that a new flank of advisers has moved in around the President. They aren't liberal by the Harry Hopkins standard, but they are far more progressive than the big-business golfing partners who used to move over from Sea Island to Augusta when Ike went to the "Georgia White House." Some
wiseacres call them "hucksters"
rather than liberals, and it's true that the new flank is passionately concerned with upping Ike's Gallup Poll rating. However, they include Kevin McCann, president of the Defiance College; Charles Moore, up-and-coming former public-relations adviser to Ford Motors; Dr. Arthur Burns, liberal head of the Council of Economic Advisers; C. D. Jackson, former publisher of Fortune Magazine and the man who pushed Ike into the atomic-pool speech; and Robert Cutler, Boston banker who got into the White House through Justice Felix Frankfurter. This group is unanimously anti-McCarthy and unanimously opposed to the right-wing GOP. They are pulling Ike to get back to the middle-of-the-road course where he once had the support of many Democrats.

Ike and Congress — Congressional relations is a field that greatly worries the President. At first he figured he could "goodwill" members of Congress, that White House luncheons, personal conversations would keep congressmen in line. Now he is a wiser man. Nothing but a strong and successful policy, he has begun to realize, can keep Congress with him. And he still hasn't learned this completely. When Senator Knowland kicked over the traces on funneling of defense orders to depressed areas; when Sam Rayburn reacted vigorously to criticism of Democratic spending, the President was hurt and bewildered. He still is a long way from understanding politics.

VEERING TOWARD EUROPE
Ike and Foreign Policy — This is the field that Eisenhower knows best and where he is determined to chalk up notable achievements.
Here he has been more consistent than in domestic policy, but sometimes so cautious that his own advisers get impatient. It took time to get him to make the $15-000,000 food gift to East Germany last spring, a move actually initiated by the State Department and which met with immediate success. Later, when an old-clothes drive was planned to help the East Germans, the summer White House in Denver misplaced Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's letter for three weeks and the clothes drive never did get under way. The President also hesitated three months before he made his speech proposing the pooling of atomic energy, and the speech was rewritten more than 20 times. On foreign affairs generally, Ike has switched from the China bloc's view that the U. S. A. must concentrate on the Far East. He is now veering more toward Europe.

His over-all policies remain the same as those laid down in the Truman administration but, after all, both Dulles and Eisenhower were among those appointed to carry those policies forward.

Ike The Man—After one year in the White House, the President workers harder than before. Sensitive to criticism that he is lazy,
he plays less golf and makes more decisions himself. During early months as President Ike tried to delegate almost everything, even bawled out his staff when they called him back from Burning Tree on the instruction of the National Security Council to make a major decision on Korea. The President still loses his temper, still chews out his staff, still likes to delegate authority. It is these bursts of temper that send up his blood pressure and worry his doctors. But Ike knows that his entire career is now in the balance and it is determined that the verdict of history will be favorable. In many respects he does not like the presidency, wishes he had never been persuaded to run. Few people realize the loneliness of living in the White House, the inability to relax, the impossibility of obtaining privacy. Though he doesn't like his job, Dwight Eisenhower is determined to do the best job he can, but he is also determined that he will not run again.

Paintings by Crippled West Frankfort Girl Draw Praise at Exhibitions

CARBONDALE, Ill. — People who know something about art
have been overheard at exhibitions
remarking on the "amazing strength" of paintings bearing the bold signature "M. Johnson".
This strength probably comes from the artist's vast reserves of courage because Marjorie Johnson, a petite Southern Illinois university coed, was the victim of a crippling illness eight years ago.
She learned to paint in a wheelchair.

The pretty, 23-year-old artist
from West Frankfort has been hounded by misfortune ever since she suffered a fall on a high school gym floor when she was 15. Despite surgery to relieve pressure on the spine, Marjorie was left paralyzed from the waist down and began drawing sketches to whittle away the long days.

She received no formal training

Gov't Reports Letdowns, But Business Good

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department reported today that business has been good this winter in spite of some "letdowns"
and a rise in unemployment.

In its monthly economic survey,
the department said government and business spending and retail sales continued "at close to peak volumes" during November and December.

It said, however, that industrial production fell off 5 per cent compared with May-July records, contributing to a one per cent drop in business and personal earnings
during the third quarter.

The production of TV sets, freezers and dishwashers declined but the output of room air conditioners, dryers and garbage disposal units
increased.

The report said business inventories hit a peak of $79,380,000,000 in September with retailers drawing mostly on their own stocks rather than placing new orders to meet sales.

The Commerce Department report came amid these other developments on the economic front:

1. The Labor Department reported that new unemployment insurance claims during the week of Jan. 9 reached the highest level
since immediately after World War II.

2. Undersecretary of Commerce
Walter Williams said in Chicago that total national output at the end of 1953 was about three per cent below the record highs of last spring. He attributed the decline to "an adjustment from over-production and over-accumulation of inventories."

3. The Census Bureau said U. S.
exports dropped 8 per cent in the first 11 months of 1953 while imports from other nations rose about 3 per cent.

in art until she registered at SIU
in 1949, but in the past two years she has won three grand prizes in competitions at the DuQuoin State Fair. This winter, Marjorie took the Doctors' Hospital award in a student show here, and her work has been exhibited as far away as Mississippi. Fellow students elected her president of the SIU Art Club.

Burnett Shryock, acting chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Southern, compares Marjorie to Kathe Kollwitz, German painter and sculptress. But it is the Italian Modigliani whose genius she respects most.

"Marjorie's work is very sensitive, yet it is quite powerful," Shryock says. "She is versatile, too, having the ability to go in any direction."

Art Interest from Illness

The range of Marjorie's artistic expression is evident in the variety of canvases and sketches in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
H. L. Johnson, who operate an appliance store in West Frankfort.
There are sharp, lifelike portraits and experimental oils with subdued forms or brilliant hues. Pen and ink, charcoal and pastel are her favorite media.

"Realism but not photographic realism" constitutes her general approach to painting.

Marjorie believes she may never have taken a serious interest in art if she had not been stricken with hemangioma which was aggravated by the fall back in high school.

"I was at that adolescent stage
where I was just going all the time without any particular goals," Marjorie says. Though she had studied piano for 10 years, she felt her injury had limited her aspirations in this direction.

Keeps Trying to Walk

But her enforced withdrawal from most normal teenage activities failed to shake her optimistic attitude. With the help of friends who were constantly at her side, Marjorie was able to finish high school. In the evenings, after her homework was finished, she found more and more satisfaction in painting.

During her junior year at SIU
in 1950, when she was still learning to support her weight on hand crutches, Marjorie fell and broke her ankle. Another long period of convalescence followed, but ambition was stronger than her handicap and Marjorie returned to Southern to continue her art education. She expects to earn a bachelor's degree this spring and go right into graduate work to prepare herself for a job in a museum
or a college art department.

Meanwhile, Marjorie spends most of the daylight hours in Allyn Hall here, usually in front of an easel.
There is no way of knowing whether she will be able to walk unassisted some day, although Marjorie feels she is making progress in that direction. Her indomitable spirit makes one thing certain,
however: she will never give up trying.

Exporter Denied License to Sell Butter to Russia

WASHINGTON (UP) — Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks has formally denied the application of an American exporter for a license to sell 40 million pounds of surplus butter to Russia.

The government is still considering the request of the exporter Dwayne Andreas of Mankato, Minn., for permission to ship six to seven million pounds of surplus cottonseed oil to a Soviet satellite. Weeks turned down the application without a formal statement. However he foreshadowed his action last Friday in telling newsmen he would not approve a license that would let an exporter "buy butter at considerably lower prices than those paid by the American housewife and then send that butter into Russia."

American housewives pay about 75 cents a pound for butter. Andreas presumably intended to buy the surplus butter and cottonseed oil from the government's Commodity Credit Corp. and sell it to Russia and the unnamed satellite at cut-rate prices.

Mrs. Sowers was presented with a scrap book by Mrs. Ruby Hilliard and a gift from a friend, Mrs. Dorothy Stricklin. She also received a lovely bouquet of red roses from her husband, and Mrs. Winkelman received a bouquet of roses that were given to her by her daughter, Dorothy, from her husband, Henry Winkelman.

The I. O. O. F. then presented the floor drill which was under the direction of the captain, Lee Morris. The benediction was given by Andrew McDaniel.

French Commandos Seize Port to Reunite Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—French commandos seized the vital port of Thakhek from the Communists today, reuniting divided Indochina and reopening the Mekong River to traffic.

The commandos swarmed into the almost deserted crossroads town on the Thailand frontier and were joined shortly afterward by an armored column moving north from Seno Airbase.

An estimated five to eight Red battalions moved out of central Laos as a result of the successful attack on Thakhek, which the Communists captured in last December's drive.

Baby Suffers Burns in Crib

WYATT, Mo. AP—The 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Vincent died early today of second degree burns received when his parents' home caught fire Tuesday.

The baby and two other Vincent children were alone in the home when the fire broke out and authorities believe an exploding stove caused the blaze.

Virgil Thomas, a neighbor, carried out the older children who were not badly burned. He did not know the baby was in the house until he heard the boy scream and then went back and snatched him from a burning crib.

Thomas suffered severe burns on his hands and arms as a result of the rescues.

Wyatt is across the Mississippi river from Cairo, Ill. The baby was the third fire victim in the area in the past five days. The other victims were two Cairo women who were burned in their apartments.

Reaffirm Ruling Interstate Trucks Not Subject to State Weight Law

SPRINGFIELD AP—The Illinois Supreme Court today reaffirmed its ruling that the 1951 truck weight law cannot be applied to interstate truck operations.

The court again held the major portions of the law are constitutional but said it can't be interpreted to allow suspension of trucker's right to engage in interstate commerce for weight violations.

Handing down its January term opinions, the high court failed to rule on the constitutionality of the 1953 act providing a 60-day "cooling-off" period in divorce cases. In other cases, the court:

1. Ordered a new sanity hearing for Curtis Chapman, White Hall youth convicted and sentenced to die for the 1949 hitchhike slaying of Howard Heinger, Jerseyville.
2. Refused to rule on whether Jake S. Rubin, president of the Cairo Turf Club, was entitled to a 1952-53 tavern license despite his conviction of violating federal liquor laws.

3. Reversed a Cook County Circuit Court order which held a 1951 amendment to the Illinois Community Currency Exchange Act, regulating mobile currency exchanges, was unconstitutional.
4. Turned down an appeal by Ronald Tree, Chicago heir to the Child Welfare Office to Observe 14th Birthday

county funds would be available to meet administrative cost, service was not actually begun until January 22, 1940. At that time, a full time child welfare worker was sent by the Department of Public Welfare, Child Welfare Division, to give service to the county. From that date until November 1941, the office operated as a joint project of Gallatin and Saline counties. Both the new worker and the original Gallatin county worker carried cases in both counties, dividing the load according to the kinds of problems involved.

After November 1941, the newer worker gave service to all cases in Saline county while the original Gallatin county worker again confined his work to that county. From this point, the Saline county office operated separately. Service to this county has been continuous since 1940.

The community has supported the child welfare office in an admirable manner. When the office was first opened, the worker found it necessary to give considerable attention to publicity in an effort to interpret to the community the kind of services the office could render. There was fine cooperation from the Harrisburg Daily Register and Radio Station WEDQ. Through the years, the County Board of Supervisors has likewise indicated interest and support thru continued appropriations for the operation of the child welfare office. From time to time, civic organizations have contributed clothing and miscellaneous articles which county appropriations could not cover.

In the past, Saline county families have shown considerable interest in boarding children. At this time, there are eight families caring for children.

Applications are welcomed from interested families at any time. The referral of cases comes from county officials, school personnel, other social agencies and others in the community who are interested in the office. Statistics show that the office has given service, in one form or another, to 757 children since its establishment in 1940.

Services which this office may render include placement of children in foster homes, relatives' homes or institutions when their own homes are found unsuitable; visits to the homes after placement to help in adjusting, help to unmarried mothers in making plans for themselves and their children, and the study and approval of homes for foster care of children.

Assistance is given in making proper referral to institutions for the handicapped child in need of special care and schooling. Help is given in referring to the state Child Guidance clinic those children who have emotional problems or learning difficulties. Social studies are made for the county and circuit court relative to children's cases at the request of the court.

The child welfare office is located in the basement of the Saline county court house with Mrs. Anna-belle Melton serving as child welfare worker and Mrs. Molly Anglin as secretary.

six million dollar Lambert Tree estate, for distribution of $800,000 to him and other heirs under a "family settlement agreement."

The 1951 truck weight law provides for suspension of a trucker's operating privileges if he "habitually" violates weight limits.

The Supreme Court last Sept. 24 ruled the law valid but held the state courts can't suspend a trucker's right to operate in interstate traffic due to weight violations.

Atty. Gen. Latham Castle was granted a rehearing on the question of the constitutionality of the act as it applied to interstate operations.

Opinion by Chief Justice
Chief Justice Walter V. Schaefer, Lake Bluff, wrote today's opinion which reaffirmed and expanded upon the Sept. 24 ruling.

He said regulation of highway weight limits "is a matter of vital local concern and one which Congress has left open to regulation by the states."

"On the other hand, Congress has legislated in this field 'to the end of developing, coordinating and preserving a national transportation system of water, highway, and rail as well as other means...'" he said.

"Weighing the effect of the state action in this case against the announced purpose of Congress, we are of the opinion that the statute is invalid to the extent that it provides for suspension of the right to engage in interstate commerce upon the highways of this state."

Schaefer said the court couldn't see how an "adequate" national transportation system could be maintained, if the "transportation network" is "subject to disruption by state suspension of operating rights for violation of load limits or other traffic regulations."

In other cases today, the court: Held valid a special election in United District 2, Bond county, involving a $975,000 bond issue for a new school site and buildings.

Affirmed a Union County Circuit Court order restoring Cora Logan, a nurse, to her job at Anna state hospital. She had been discharged on grounds her poor eyesight interfered with her nursing duties.

Find No Evidence Of Shakedown In State Dep't

WASHINGTON AP—An intensive behind-the-scenes investigation revealed no evidence that some State Department employees once engaged in a $150,000 "shakedown" of a friendly foreign country, it was learned today.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) made the charge of possible wrongdoing last July 13. He said evidence obtained by his permanent investigating subcommittee indicated the money was taken by some employees of "the old Acheson State Department."

Asked by the United Press about the current status of the investigation, a State Department spokesman said:

"The investigation is virtually completed. There is no indication that any State Department personnel have at any time been involved in any way."

Neither the State Department employees nor the foreign country alleged to have been involved in the shakedown have ever been identified. There have been unofficial reports, however, that a political group in Nicaragua had sought to gain recognition as the legal government of that country "for a price."

Without giving any details, McCarthy said evidence indicated the foreign country paid the money "to get consideration that it was entitled to anyway." The senator recommended that the State Department look more deeply into the allegations aired before his investigating subcommittee.

In spite of the intensive effort, the department was unable to find any evidence that U. S. diplomats took part in any shakedown plot.

Galatia, Rosiclare Win Opening Games of Greater Egyptian Tourney

Galatia's Bearcats, defending conference tourney champs, and underdog Rosiclare won opening night games in the Greater Egyptian tourney last night at the Cave-in-Rock gymnasium.

A capacity crowd saw favorite Galatia topple Shawneetown, 55-46, in the initial fray and then watched Rosiclare post an upset decision over Pope Co., 58-53, in a torrid contest.

Tonight, Brookport will play the host school, Cave-in-Rock, at 7 o'clock, with Ridgeway meeting Vienna in the aftermath. By virtue of their Tuesday night victories, Galatia and Rosiclare will meet in the first game Thursday night, and winners of tonight's games will play in the second semi-final event tomorrow evening.

It was the third time this season that Bob Farris' Saline county cagers had bested their Gallatin county rivals. The Bearcats moved into command during the first quarter, never permitting the always dangerous Indians to overtake them.

Galatia held a 16-12 edge after eight minutes of play and a 27-21 advantage at halftime. At the end of the third quarter, the Bearcats had amassed their longest lead of the fray, a 41-31 margin.

Throughout the game, however, the Indians were a constant threat. Joe Upchurch was once again the chief point-producer for the victors, as he scored 22 points, half of them coming in the final quarter.

Rosiclare, beaten twice previously in regular season play by Pope Co., finally turned the tables on the Pirates last night. The game was a thriller from the opening whistle. Rosiclare led 17-15 at the quarter, but the score was tied 28-28 at the intermission.

The Bears had regained a slight margin, 42-39, by the end of the third although the two clubs were never separated by more than five points. In the closing minutes of the red-hot encounter, the Bears recovered the lead after a Pirate rally, and two quick baskets in the final minute of play gave Rosiclare its five-point victory margin.

Enos Slaughter To Enter Politics

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UP) — Enos Slaughter, veteran outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, is going into politics.

Maurice Joseph, chairman of the St. Clair County Democratic Committee, and candidate for sheriff, said Slaughter would run for nomination as county clerk on his ticket.

Slaughter, who operates a jewelry store here during the off season, is now in Florida as an instructor at a baseball school.

New York City was the capital of the state until 1797.

Roberts Named Lineman of Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — J. D. Roberts, University of Oklahoma All-American guard, today was named lineman of the year by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association. Roberts was the overwhelming choice of the nation's top 100 coaches who make the choice for the association, while Notre Dame tackle Art Hunter and Maryland tackle Stan Jones were second and third, respectively.

Puerto Rico is the only part of the United States where Columbus never set foot.

It's Amazing How Struggling Fans Worry About Stars' Pay

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — It's difficult to understand why Bob Carpenter cut the salary of such a conscientious pitcher as Robin Roberts.

On his record alone, Roberts is worth every ruble of the $40,000 or so the Phillies paid him. And because of his willingness to work in and out of turn, the great right-hander richly deserves anything extra.

Owner Carpenter might choose to throw his way.

Making the Roberts deal even more incongruous is Carpenter in the one swipe paying the Pirates $80,000 and picking up the fat contract of 37-year-old Murry Dickson. Stressing the inequity of baseball contracts, the Yankees signed Harry Byrd at $9,000.

Byrd was the key man in the big transaction with the Athletics. Eddie Robinson practically was a throw-in, as figured as nothing more than a part-time worker, yet Del E. Webb and Company will pay him the $30,000 the Maeks contracted to give the large first baseman for another year.

There is an extraordinary rash of holdouts, but this doesn't mean anything more than it ever did. It's easy for a ball player to ask for more at this time of year. He becomes considerably easier to negotiate with later on when he picks up the newspapers and finds all his friends in Florida or Arizona enjoying a six weeks vacation with all expenses paid.

Violent holdout stories bring to mind a cartoon of some time back, depicting a portly big leaguer sitting in a living room chair, snarling as he read the papers.

"Imagine that," he said to his wife. "Imagine that jerk owner trying to sign me for a measly eighteen-five. Either I get 20 grand, or I don't play."

"That's right, dear," replied the missus, "but what are you going to do if you don't sign ... go back to the gas station?"

It's amazing how fans worry about big league ball players and the amount of money they make. The bus driver with three kids is annoyed because Joe Bloskes, the outfielder, has to struggle along on $42,500. The addict pushing along an old broken-down heap will chip in $5 to give his favorite athlete a day or a night and a Cadillac.

Only in baseball is the customer concerned about the salary of his pet performer. He adopts the noble athlete at the outset. The player is his man and he wants to see him treated handsomely, no matter how painful.

This is a considerable extent accounts for 154 games in a season. The players belong to the fans, which is one of the finer things about the game.

An exception is the short order cook in the greasy spoon across the street. He was hopping mad the day the Yankees announced that they were giving Joe DiMaggio $100,000 for the season.

"Some nerve," he said. "They're giving this Johnny-Come-Lately a hummer grand and my brother, who has been working at Yankee Stadium since it opened in 1923, can't get a lousy five buck raise. Who is this bum, DiMaggio, anyway, that he figures ahead of my brother?"

Questioning brought out the fact that the chef's brother helped roll out the tarpaulin.

But he had seniority.

WEBQ to Broadcast All Cardinal Games During 1954 Season

All 1954 St. Louis Cardinal baseball games will be broadcast by Radio Station WEBQ, it was announced today by I. M. Taylor, station manager.

Taylor said he had just returned from St. Louis where negotiations for the broadcasts were completed with representatives of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., the brewery which will sponsor the broadcasts.

WEBQ will be one of approximately 100 stations on the Budweiser-Cardinal network, which will broadcast into 13 states in the surrounding area.

Harry Caray, who has broadcast Cardinal games for nine years, will be at the microphone. The rest of the broadcasting team has not yet been named.

Broadcasts will start on March 18 from St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Cardinals train. All spring training games after that date and all Cardinals' National League games for 1954 will be broadcast from the scene of action.

Bull Dogs Drop 64-43 South 7 Tilt at Benton

Rangers Take and Keep Early Lead; Anglin Out by Illness

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs last night dropped at Benton a 64-43 tilt that put the Rangers in a tie with Herrin for second place in the South Seven basketball conference.

Benton simply jumped into the lead and held it. That was the ball game. Only in the third quarter did the locals stay up with the foe, outscoring them 13 to 12 in that frame.

Coach Lawrence Caluffetti's team played without the services of David Anglin, sophomore sharpshooter who hasn't been at school this week because of illness. Anglin always has been good for points.

In his place another sophomore, Ronnie Williams, was started. Other starters were Dave Harrison, Richard Gideumb, Gerald Wasson and Ronnie Riegel, who is developing into the most consistent shot on the team as well as being the sparkplug.

Bull Pups Lose, 63-57

Riegel was high scorer for Harrisburg with 17 points. Moose Phillips' 21 points for Benton gave him scoring honors for the game.

At the outset Benton pulled out into a 5-0 lead and after Harrisburg narrowed the gap to 7-5, the Rangers pulled away, at one time holding a 16-7 margin. The quarter ended with Coach Ralph Hooker's boys ahead 20-13.

In the second period Harrisburg made but two baskets and three free throws as Benton pulled out to a 37-20 margin at half time.

The preliminary game saw the Bull Pups dominated by the Benton freshmen - sophomore team, 63 to 50.

The Bull Dogs have one more game this week, a South Seven engagement at Mt. Vernon Saturday night. The Rams are leading the league.

Junior High Wins Two Cage Games From Carrier Mills

The Harrisburg Junior high school basketball teams won two games from Carrier Mills Tuesday. The local seventh grade squad won by a score of 29-23 and the eighth graders took a 49-28 decision.

This marked the 10th win in 12 starts for the eighth grade boys, who have lost to Carmi and Metropolis.

Harrisburg's seventh grade team has suffered one defeat, to Norris City, while winning 11 times.

In Tuesday's game the local eighth grade team led Carrier Mills all the way, 14-3, 22-5, 34-16 and the final score, 49-28.

In the seventh grade game the score was tied 6-6 at the quarter. Harrisburg held the advantage, 18-7 at half time, was in front 24-14 at the end of three quarters and won 29-23.

Notre Dame is Impressive With 95-74 Win Over Purdue For Sixth Straight Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame's winning streak stood at six games, and its overall record at 10-2 today as the Fighting Irish bid for a basketball ranking as good or better than the high rating their football team achieved last fall.

The Irish kept the pressure on in their drive Tuesday night by handing Purdue its worst defeat of the season, 95-74, at South Bend, Ind., as forward Joe Bertrand showed the way with 25 points.

That 21-point victory margin looked especially impressive since Indiana, the defending NCAA champion, was able to down the Boiler-makers by only six points. Indiana handed Notre Dame one of its only two defeats, the other coming on a one-basket upset by Bradley—both defeats being in road games.

North Carolina Loses

In their current streak, the Irish had previously beaten Northwestern (for the second time this season), Louisville, NYU, Holy Cross, and Canisius.

Maryland succeeded to first place in the Atlantic Coast conference Tuesday night when North Carolina suffered its first league loss at the hands of North Carolina State, 84-77. Maryland, idle Tuesday night, now leads with a 5-1 mark and North Carolina stands second with 3-1.

Holy Cross bounced back from its crushing defeat by Notre Dame to trounce Dartmouth, 82-67, at Worcester, Mass., to move its record up to 13-1. Togo Palazzi, the Crusaders' All-America candidate, poured in 38 points, including four quick baskets in the third period that clinched the game after Dartmouth had pulled up to trail by only 60-46.

Bevo Scores 55 Points

That man Bevo Francis had another big night for Rio Grande college, scoring 55 points to pace a 117-78 victory over Ashland college of Ohio. Bevo now has averaged 49.5 points per game and Rio Grande 95.8.

In other leading games Tuesday night: Idaho beat Washington State, 71-53, in the Pacific Coast conference; Jim Lamkin scored 20 points to lead De Paul in a 94-42 rout of Lewis college; Sonny Wilson scored 28 points, 15 in a last-quarter drive, to pace Hobart in a 75-58 upset of Colgate; and Indiana State downed Butler, 60-49.

Thompsonville, Royalton Win Tourney Games

Thompsonville and Royalton captured first round games in the Little Egyptian conference tournament last night at Waltonville to gain the right to meet Thursday evening in the first semi-final round tussle.

Thompsonville's defending titlists tripped Woodlawn, 82-57, and Royalton eliminated Crab Orchard, 60-55. Tonight's action will pit Waltonville against Blufford.

Dahlgren was to have played Valer in the second tourney game tonight, but withdrew from the meet, leaving Valer with a bye. Hence, tonight's Waltonville-Blufford winner will play Valer in the second semi-final game Thursday.

Thompsonville led Woodlawn at every break, holding 22-15, 36-31 and 57-46 margins. The losers outscored the Tigers in the second period, but were outclassed in all other quarters.

Coach Bob Munday used ten men in routing the Woodlawners. Crab Orchard trailed Royalton ten points at halftime but rallied in the third to tie the score. Royalton was able to regain their lost lead, however, and go on to victory.

THOMPSONVILLE — Logsdon 18, Hodgson 3, Schwabe 7, Carlile 2, Isaacs 9, Lemmon 16, Simpson 2, Gregory 5, Marsh 14, Doss 2.

WOODLAWN — Corners 11, Ryski 4, Zinney 2, Sibes 6, Burnes 18, Mefford 4, Cusic 3, Lawhorn 0, Burns 9.

Financier Robert R. Young Seeks Control of NYC

Treat Children as Individuals, Mother of 19 Says

PIERRE, S. D. — Mrs. Edward Nemec, who gave birth to her 19th child Monday, advised parents today to treat their children as individuals.

"No two children are alike and every situation that comes up is different," the brown-haired ranch wife said.

"Each child has to be handled differently in each situation."

Mrs. Nemec hedged, however, when asked if she would recommend large families for other parents.

"The size of any family is a personal affair," she said. "I can only say that I've enjoyed ours."

One advantage of a large family, she said, is that children learn to adjust easily to other people.

Mrs. Nemec's 19th child — 9-pound, 4-ounce Rita Kathleen — was born a day before her mother's 44th birthday, to the disappointment of nuns at St. Mary's Hospital, where Mrs. Nemec is a favorite patient because all of the children have been born there.

The sisters had hoped the child would be a birthday present.

Seventeen of the children are living, all were single births. Sixteen were delivered by Dr. M. M. Morrissey, and the first three by when asked if she would recommend large families for other parents.

Work in the Nemecs' comfortable, modern, 14-room ranch house 15 miles from Midland, S. D., is divided among the children according to aptitude.

Those who prefer to cook, prepare the meals; those who would rather wash, clean, or iron, concentrate on their specialties. The bigger children look after the smaller ones.
